South African Bishop Crowther Will Speak Monday At Convo

(NEWS BUREAU)--The Right Rev. C. Edward Crowther, who was deported from the Republic of South Africa in 1967 for his denunciation of that government's policy of apartheid (segregation), will open Wartburg College's 1968-69 convocation series here Sept. 9.

His 10 a.m. address in Neumann Chapel-auditorium will be "The Responsibility of the Present Generation for the World of 1968."

Bishop Crowther was Anglican Bishop of Kimberley and Kuruman, South Africa, at the time of his deportation.

Before his final showdown with the Ministry of the Interior of South Africa, Bishop Crowther had been banned from all African reserves in his diocese.

"Time" magazine brought international attention to Mamuthla when the Bishop defied that ban and attempted to deliver truckloads of food to starving Africans. He was then forbidden to visit the Ovamboland section of Southwest Africa following an invitation to address a church meeting there.

His concern for the welfare of hundreds of dispossessed Africans at Mamuthla during Christmas, 1965, led to an accusation from South African officials of trying to "embarrass" the government and to a declaration of "off limits" for Bishop Crowther in that area.

Since his return to the U.S., the Bishop has lectured extensively, and last February addressed the Apartheid Committee of the United Nations--a speech which was voted for U. N. distribution.

Add Planetarium To Science Hall

Wartburg College will soon add a planetarium to the recently dedicated Becker Hall of Science. This installation includes a projector, a control console, a dome, lighting and seating, according to Dr. John Chellevoid, college vice president.

A planetarium is technically a special projection instrument capable of reproducing on a hemispheric dome surface the celestial bodies. The dome itself is a hemisphere of light-weight metal suspended from the ceiling of a cubicle room on the "penthouse floor" of the Becker Hall of Science, according to Dr. Chellevoid.

Cost Is Estimated

He estimated the planetarium's cost at $37,000. He stressed the fact that this amount includes special upholstered, adjustable chairs and carpeting for the floor. It is being financed through a gift from the Castle Club and through a federal grant.

Oct. 15 of this year is the expected completion date. The first demonstration is scheduled for the early part of November, with a guest lecturer giving the program.

The planetarium chamber seats 45, and has a dome diameter of 24 feet. The seating will be unidirectional with the control console between the chairs.

Value Is Found

The value of the planetarium is found in its variability, according to Chellevoid. It is a room where the sky can be projected. Such projection, according to Dr. Chellevoid, makes possible the teaching of space sciences in a controlled environment.

The planetarium creates a night sky during classroom hours and eliminates the uncertainties of weather interferences. The sky can be presented as it appears at any time of day or night for any time in the past, present or future from any point on earth.

Motions of the earth and other celestial bodies can be accelerated. Time can be compressed so that phenomena that naturally take centuries may be viewed in class.

Artist Series To Present Four Major Productions

Four major productions make up the 1968-69 Artist Series at Wartburg College, according to Robert C. Gremmels, new Artist Series director.

Dr. A. W. Swensen, who arranged this year's Series, ended 45 years as chairman of the cultural attraction with his retirement on July 1.

Headlining and opening the slate on Nov. 6 will be the hit Broadway musical "Fiddler on the Roof." Two performances are scheduled--a matinee at 3 p.m. and another at the regular time of 8 p.m.

Inform Students

As in the past, students will be informed in advance of the performance regarding where and when to obtain their tickets. The regular activity fee will cover the cost of all Series' tickets, except for the evening performance of "Fiddler on the Roof," when an additional fee will be charged.

Other numbers include the Obernkirchen Children's Choir from Germany on Nov. 12, the Romanian Folk Ballet on Dec. 1 and the Chamber Symphony of Philadelphia, featuring pianist Julius Katchen as soloist, on Feb. 2.

All numbers this year will be held in the 1400-seat Neumann Auditorium and will begin at 8 p.m., with the exception of the matinee on Nov. 6. Students may obtain a season reservation from the Alumni Office for an additional charge.

"Fiddler on the Roof," which has been called "one of the great works of the American musical theatre," is based on the tales of Sholem Aleichem about the dairyman Tevye, who complains directly to God while supporting a sharp-tongued wife and five marriageable daughters in a Russian Czarist village at the turn of the century.

Is In Fifth Year

Now in its fifth year, "Fiddler on the Roof" abounds with such songs as "If I Were a Rich Man," "Matchmaker, Matchmaker," "Sunrise, Sunset" and "Do You Love Me?"

Wartburg Student Group Proposes Free University

A Wartburg Free University has been proposed by several Wartburg students. They have scheduled a meeting for all interested students and faculty for next Tuesday in Buhr Lounge at 8 p.m.

Purpose of the meeting is to gain approval of the course and, according to Sproat, "draw up informal guidelines for the operation and expansion of the Wartburg Free University.

Two students, senior Gary Sproat and junior Lyle Schnadt, have indicated they have definite plans for at least one course, to be entitled "Political Issues, '68."

"This is the free university concept based on the equal participation of students and faculty in a non-credit course in which the students determine the goals, methods and materials to be utilized."

According to Sproat, the free university is an attempt to create a more contemporary educational institution.

Classes would probably be held at night with discussions being led by Wartburg students and interested faculty members.

The students have indicated they plan to meet with certain administrative officials late next week to discuss the proposal.

Expect Increase In Enrollment

Enrollment is expected to reach an all time Wartburg high during the 1968-69 school year, according to Admissions Director Victor Pinke.

Final figures are not yet available, though over 1400 full and part-time students are expected once the official totals are released. It would be the largest student body in Wartburg history.

Freshman class figures are expected to round out at about 430, while approximately 100 transfer students are anticipated. The transfers come from 55 different institutions.

The freshman class also has the highest average ACT score, 23.73, of any entire class in Knight history.

Over half of the incoming freshmen rank in the top quarter of their graduating high school class, while 14 per cent were in the top five per cent of their high school class.

Colleges In Title III Implement Grant

Wartburg College, Luther College, Upper Iowa College and Waldorf College, the four institutions participating in the Title III Grant consortium, are currently engaged in projects of self-improvement.

Areas being considered include curriculum development, strengthening of administrative services, strengthening of student personnel programs and use of visiting scholars. Of particular importance are the last two.

The scholar-in-residence will lead the faculties and the students of each college in a consideration of the impact which social changes will have upon American colleges and universities in the next two decades.

To the counseling staff of the college has been added a counselor and a reading consultant.

Schmidt To Serve

Dr. Karl Schmidt, chairman of the Religion Department, has agreed to serve as coordinator of the project for the 1968-69 academic year. He has been given a leave of absence by Wartburg College in order to take this position.

The overall direction of the project is the responsibility of an executive committee, consisting of Dr. Clair Kloster, vice president for student affairs, Luther College; Dr. Charles Clark, academic dean, Upper Iowa College; Dr. Gerrish Severson, academic dean, Waldorf College; and Dr. Mahlon Hellerich, dean of the faculty, Wartburg College.

To coordinate the program activities on the Wartburg campus, President Bachman has appointed a committee consisting of Dr. Mahlon Hellerich, chairman; Mrs. Ruth Anderson, Miss Erna Moehl, Mr. Quentin Wessman and Dean Earnest Oppermann.

Dr. Emory Lindquist, retiring president of Wichita State University, has accepted the position of scholar-in-residence.

Counselor Is Secured

Although presently unfilled, Dr. Schmidt said that a counselor to coordinate work on all four campuses has been secured. His position has a particular reference to students from minority racial and ethnic backgrounds.

Mrs. Wesley Sampson will serve as a counselor to Wartburg students and Mrs. Phyllis Schmidt will serve as reading consultant at Wartburg.

As the first phase of her work, Mrs. Sampson will work with students on academic probation. Mrs. Schmidt will work with entering freshmen with reading problems.

Mrs. Carlton Baker has been hired by Wartburg this year to fill the positions of Karl Briner during the fall semester and Samuel Michaelson during the winter semester in the English Department. Both men will be on leave working toward doctorate degrees.

Editorial

Growing Can Be Painful

Alas, Wartburg College is suffering from growing pains. It is apparent not only in crowded classrooms and increased enrollment (largest student body in Wartburg history), but in the continued attempts by some students and faculty to deal with the movement toward greater academic freedom and student responsibility. The signs of such growth are indeed encouraging.

For example, student body leadership at last seems destined to set a new and meaningful trend in student politics, not entirely molded by the whims of the administration or traditions of the past.

Expression Is Encouraged

Free expression and creativity will be encouraged again at the coffeehouse, and certain students are currently working out details of a possible free university on campus. The Convo Series, too, will feature some outstanding speakers (The Right Rev. C. Edward Crowther, the Anglican bishop who opposed the apartheid policies of the South African government; Art Knight, film editor of the Saturday Review; Clarence Jordan, author of "The Cotton Patch"; Harold Hughes, governor of Iowa and the man who nominated Sen. Eugene McCarthy at the Democratic National Convention, etc.).

All of these things (and more) indicate that Wartburg is indeed attempting to provide the broadest education possible while holding steady to the conviction that religious motivations should and must continue to hold sway in the face of our ever-changing world.

Chance Is Available

Obviously, the chances for intellectual growth and for exposure to many different elements of life are available, though it is sad but true that not all students will share in the experience. To those students who miss the experience, the Trumpet can only express its regrets.

The fault will not lie in Wartburg College but in the student who fails to take advantage of his every opportunity. Intellectual growing pains may often be painful but are nearly always beneficial.

A Message From The Student Body President

Last spring while campaigning I made seven specific proposals. I think that a progress report is now in order.

The alternate route to graduation has disappeared into a faculty subcommittee. As they have not met during the summer, it is no farther along now than it was when you left. However, I hope some indication of their action will be available by early October.

The Ombudsman (Dave Wild) has been handling student complaints and advising students on appeal since late April of last year. He has apparently been awarded de facto existence by the administration, although his position in regard to complaints concerning grades is still somewhat unclear, being under study by the Educational Policies Committee.

A new student union committee has been approved by the faculty Committee on Committees. It will consist of seven faculty and staff members and six students. We are in the process of adding two more students, to gain the majority.

The Academic Life Commission has completed two course evaluations without incident, and anticipates no great problems in the future. Present plans include evaluation of all courses in the Religion, English, History, Philosophy and Natural Science Departments this fall with a reasonably complete listing to be issued early in the second semester before pre-registration for the following year.

Text for a new admissions brochure written by students is under study by the Admissions department. If approved, it will be a departure, not only from past institutional practice, but also from the general procedure used in writing such brochures. It is an honest estimation of the strengths and weaknesses of the college.

Due to a procedural misunderstanding, we were never contacted in May by the Board of Regents concerning a new definition of student rights. I have placed Student Government on the agenda for their Nov. 8 meeting, where I will belatedly make the requests outlined in the platform.

Specific proposals for constitutional revision will be made to the Senate and the student body by early November. These will include correction of certain oversights, representation by housing units and an important redefinition of the purpose of student government itself.

Thus, I am in the happy position of being able to announce four out of seven promises have been fulfilled, and fulfillment of the other three are still very possible.

Smokey Is Interviewed

A syndicated columnist recently interviewed Smokey the Bear in a small pub in Washington, D. C. The columnist waited for him patiently at a table in the corner of the pub near the jukebox. After a half hour and still no bear, the columnist was ready to pick up his tab and leave when Smokey entered the door and sat down for the interview. He was wearing a dark business suit, blue shirt and paisley tie and polaroid sunglasses.

"Barkeep, bring me a dry martini," Smokey said, snapping his claws. "I'm sorry I'm late," Smokey told the columnist. "I was at a presidential campaign meeting."

"I see," said the columnist as the bartender brought the martini.

"Say, aren't you Smokey the Bear?" said the bartender.

"I'm sorry, you are mistaken," Smokey replied. "My name is Spiro Agnew."

"I see, stranger. That will be $.75."

"Tell me, Smokey," said the columnist, "other than your pictures on posters throughout our national forests, you have been relatively stagnant in your career. What have you been doing these past years?"

"Nothing," Smokey replied. "This is a dead-end job. I have no future. After giving the best years of my life, I am still running around like some kind of furry idiot with baggy overalls and a ridiculous looking hat. They still give me things to say like 'Remember, only you can prevent forest fires.' I ask you now, would they give lines like that to Paul Newman?"

"Yes, Smokey, I see what you mean. You mentioned attending a campaign meeting. Are you actively involved in politics?"

"I am pretty much an independent," Smokey said, sipping his martini. "But after the conventions I am pretty sure I will vote for Snoopy. I think Gentle Ben will take a seat in the senate from Florida. Lassie and Shirley Temple are washed up. There was an ugly rumor in the South that Ben was black, but that has been refuted."

"Black," the columnist questioned. "You mean there is racial discrimination among bears, too?"

"Oh, yes. We bears look alike to you humans, but among bears there is much racial strife. The funny thing about it is that you humans look alike to us bears. Of course, we are color blind."

"If you are color blind, how can you tell the difference between a black bear and, for instance, a brown bear like you?"

"It's easy, but don't print this. The black bears are dumber, and do not have the qualities of us brown bears. They live in a poorer part of the forest. When they move into our neighborhoods, the property value goes down. Do you remember all the forest fires we had this summer?"

"Yes."

"They weren't caused by lightning, I'll clue you. They were caused by rioting in the ghettos."

"Is that a fact?"

"Yes, something has to be done."

"I only have a few minutes left, Smokey," the columnist exclaimed. "Tell me, what are your long-range plans?"

"Well, after experimenting I have finally found my bag. I'm going to be a film star."

"I see. What movie will you be in?"

"No movie. I'm going to be in a razor-blade commercial."

Wartburg Knights, leaving behind forever the days of buttoning and bright orange beanies with large black W's.

Bondhus Ends 'Rebuilding' Talk; Is Ready To Win Some Games

By DAVE WESTPHAL

Wartburg's head football coach Lee Bondhus begins his fourth year as the Knights' mentor when he takes his squad into action next week at home against new opponent Lea College.

Bondhus, who figures that he has had three good years of rebuilding under his belt, is ready to lay it on the line. He says that the quality of this year's team will be indicated by the Knights' record at the end of the year.

25 Veterans Return

Twenty-five letterwinners returned to drills August 26 to lead one of the largest groups of grid-ders ever to report.

Conditioning was and still is one of the chief traits of the 1968 Knights. Bondhus seems willing to sacrifice some beef in the line for quickness, speed and agility.

One of the big problems facing Bondhus is to patch up his offensive line, where he lost four men, including All - Conference guard Al Anderson, to graduation.

Juggles Line-up

To solve this, Bondhus has borrowed several men from the defensive unit, and plans to play some linemen on both offense and defense.

At the tackles will be senior Bob Olson and sophomore Greg Slager, who will also operate at the defensive end spots. Olson must supply leadership in the young offensive line.

Bondhus slates sophomore Terry Goetzinger to start at tight end. Goetzinger saw action at both quarterback and the defensive secondary last year.

At the guards will be senior Murray McMurray and sophomore John Pearson. McMurray, All - Conference linebacker from a year ago, will be back at his old position on defense.

Pearson should also go both ways, operating at a tackle spot on the defensive unit.

2 Battle At Center

There is a battle at center between junior, Connie Hellerich and Dave Schwarz, sophomore. Schwarz saw some action last year, while Hellerich was sitting out a year of ineligibility due to transfer.

Hellerich should team with McMurray to give Wartburg two of the best linebackers in the league.

Senior Paul Danielson, ineligible last year, will be used mostly as a blocking back.

Nelson was the big gun in the Wartburg offense last year, finishing fourth in the Iowa Conference, but his success this year will depend on the improvement of the offensive line.

Moves Larson To Defense

One of the most drastic changes made this year by Bondhus was in the defensive secondary, to which senior Bob Larson was moved after setting school records in pass receiving. Larson, a sure tackler, should help plug up the secondary.

Also added to the secondary was senior Jerry Fox, who was ineligible last year. He will join junior Bob Brown and either junior Dave Wolff or Gerald Doehrmann, all veterans.

McMurray and Hellerich will be the linebackers, and Olson, Slager, Pearson, freshman Jim Weber and sophomore Jim Stueber will compose the defensive line.

Wartburg fans can probably look for the Knights to stay on the ground a little more this year.

Says Bondhus, "We feel that we have better personnel to run than to pass, but the ratio of the run to the pass will depend first on our opponent."

put his squad on display in an inter - squad scrimmage, and the results were less than satisfactory.

The starting orange team displayed a sputtering offense characteristic of a year ago, and the second stringers had little trouble in moving against the number one team.

Several punters found not a good deal more success, and spectators saw the pigskin sailing out-of-bounds after traveling several yards.

Another noticeable flaw in the Knights' game was the kicking game. Sophomores Allen and Smoker both tried their hand at conversion attempts, and neither was successful.

An injury sustained by Murray McMurray in Thursday's game was not believed to be serious.

Looking at the IIAAC race this year, Bondhus is looking for Central and Simpson to fight it out for the league crown, with William Penn and Luther as darkhorses.

As to next week's opponent, Lea College, Bondhus doesn't know a great deal about them, as this marks the college's third year of existence.

By Jim Keifer Out On A Limb Asks Student Support

The summer has again passed and it's time to get back to the grind of studying and other activities that accompany college life. The football season is almost upon us. It's Coach Bondhus' fourth season as head coach, and he says it's time to start winning--I hope so. The last three years have been very lean years in number of wins our football team has chalked up. Let's hope Mr. Bondhus has finally come up with a winner.

One thing that could help the football team is for the student body to get behind the team and support them. The men put in a lot of hard work and the least the student body can do is to cheer them on.

If the football team wins only one game I hope they beat Luther. It would be worth the whole season's work for this. We'll worry about Luther when the time comes.

Not everyone can compete in athletics on the college level, but they can play intramurals. We have a fine intramural director this year in Tom Schleicher. Tom is a senior from Austin, Minn., who took over as head of intramurals last spring and did a fine job.

Intramural football will be starting as soon as he can find a place to play. Maybe someday Wartburg will have a field just for intramurals and even a gymnasium for intramurals and physical education. You must remember we did get an outdoor basketball goal put up after considerable complaining last year.

A note on the bright side is the work done on the gymnasium this summer. A word of thanks goes to Mr. Kurtt and all those who helped him. They did a fine job, and it's a step in the right direction. Maybe next year they can work on the IM football field, or possibly get lights for the tennis courts.

Senior letterman Dave Mundt rushes for short yardage in last Thursday's game-type scrimmage at Schield Stadium. The starting unit piled up an impressive 12-6 win over the second string.

Cross Country Squad Prepares To Defend Title

(NEWS BUREAU)--A squad of ten, including four lettermen, will report Thursday for the first official practice of Wartburg College's defending Iowa Conference champion cross country team.

Coach John Kurtt said the 10 harriers started running on their own as soon as they arrived on campus Monday.

Holt Leads Runners

Others out include senior Ron Robbins of Clyde, Ohio; sophomore Dick Winchell of Waverly; and freshmen Bruce Coleman of Dundee, Ill., Larry Fauchier of Cedar Rapids, Burt Graham of Cedar Rapids and LyLe Hallowell of Davenport.

The Knights last fall recorded a perfect 9-0 dual meet season, won the Iowa Conference championship, the NAIA District 15 title and fifth place in the NCAA College Division Meet at Wheaton, Ill.

Kurtt says, "Matching that performance may be difficult." Wartburg lost leader Jon Thie-man via graduation and Jeff Christensen, who left school for health reasons.

Of the four lettermen back, three placed in the top 13 in last year's IIAC meet--Holt, third place; Beck, fourth place; and Sexton 13th.

Schedule Is Given

The Knights' 1968 schedule: Sept. 21, Augustana (Ill.), Wisconsin State (Whitewater), Illinois State (Normal), Rock Island, Ill.

Sept. 28, William Penn, Waverly.

Oct. 1, Winona State, Waverly. Oct. 5, Wheaton Classic, Wheaton, Ill.

Oct. 8, University of Northern Iowa, Waverly.

Oct. 12, Dubuque, Dubuque.

Oct. 16, Luther, Decorah.

Oct. 19, Central, Waverly.

Oct. 23, Loras, Dubuque.

Nov. 1, Conference Meet, Waverly.

Nov. 2, NAIA District 15 Meet, Tentative.

Nov. 9, NCAA Meet, Wheaton, Ill.

Veteran Bob Olson Leads Offensive Line

By LES GYLLSTROM

If the Knights hope to make their move this year in the Iowa Conference race, much will depend on the improvement of the offensive line.

A key player in that offensive line this year is senior tackle Bob "Bobo" Olson of Clarion, to whom Coach Bondhus is looking for leadership.

Began As Fullback

Olson, who came to Wartburg as a fullback, made the switch to the line his freshman year and has been a starter since then.

Olson has gone both ways a number of times, and is, according to Bondhus, the fastest lineman on the squad.

"Bob has as much ability as any lineman we've ever had," commented Bondhus.

"However, and I think he would be the first to admit, he still has not reached his full potential."

Bondhus hopes that some of his young players will work out at defense, so Olson can just stay at offense.

"Bob will probably start off going both ways," said Bondhus, "but I would rather have him mainly on offense because of his experience."

Is Year Of Reckoning

Olson, who is a biology major with a coaching minor, feels that this is the year of reckoning for the Knights.

"If we're going to start doing anything, this has got to be the year," explained Olson. "After Thursday night I think we'll know even more on how we stand this year, especially concerning any freshmen that might be up and coming."

Picks Central, Simpson

Olson sizes up the league with Central and Simpson being the top contenders for the IIAC, and feels that Luther should not be as strong as in years past.

When asked what game he was looking forward to the most, Olson replied, "The first one and winning it."

The first game of the season is against Lea College, and according to scouting reports, it is a lot tougher than some people think.

"They played quite a few good teams last year," explained Olson, "and had some good showings in them."

"Yet we have a nucleus made up of veterans, and I think we're ready to go," concluded Olson.

Senior Terry Sexton, sophomore Doug Beck and senior Rod Holt return to lead Wartburg's hopes for a second consecutive Iowa Conference cross-country championship.

Paul Flynn Is Injured

(NEWS BUREAU)--Paul Flynn, sophomore football tackle from Davenport who had been tabbed as a probable starter both ways for Wartburg College this fall, has been lost for four to six weeks because of an appendicitis attack, it was learned here today.

Flynn, who underwent an appendectomy early this week, will be in the hospital until Thursday or Friday and will not be able to start running for at least another week.

Coach Lee Bondhus expects Flynn to miss at least three games and says he is uncertain who will be able to fill in. Top candidates appear to be a pair of freshmen, Dale Bush of Grand Meadow, Minn., or Jim Weber of Mankato, Minn.

Flynn, 5-11, 215 pounds, was a defensive starter for the Knights all last season.

Automobile Regulations See Changes This Year

Several changes have been made in the automobile regulations for Wartburg's 1968 - 69 year, as announced by Dean of Students Earnest Oppermann.

The road between Hebron and Clinton Halls which leads to North Hall and Old Main is a private service drive. To provide for maximum and efficient usage, no stationary parking there will be allowed. This means that any car not bearing an "F" sticker will not be allowed to park there for more than two hours.

Another ruling is that every car owner residing in on-campus housing must have a permanent car stall for his car. The car is to be parked there nightly so that daily usage areas may be properly maintained.

If a student has a guest who has a car, and if the student knows of it in advance, he should make arrangements with the Dean of Students Office for temporary parking.

If it is not known in advance, the car should be parked in a friend's vacant stall, and any parking ticket resulting from this situation should be brought to Dean Oppermann's attention.

Enforcement of the new rules will come in two forms, parking tickets for illegal parking or a hobble, which would immobilize the car. A fee is charged for removing the hobble.

Fall Term Convocations To Present Six Fields

A number of Convocations has been scheduled for the Fall Term, covering topics in six fields: education, communications, ecology, human relations, folk songs and films.

Dr. Bachman addressed the Convo audience in the first of the series Wednesday night. He spoke on "Education for Revolution."

The introduction of the sixteen newcomers to the faculty and a short address by Student Body President Ron Hall were also on the agenda.

Other addresses in the field of education will be delivered by Bishop Crowther and Dr. Emory Lindquist, Wartburg's Visiting Scholar, to discuss whether or not education is really doing the job.

Wartburg's Faculty Welcomes Sixteen Additional Co-Workers

Sixteen new persons have begun this fall to serve on the Wartburg faculty.

Miss Kathryn Aden will serve as the new dean of women. Miss Aden has formerly served as resident supervisor and social director of Iowa Methodist Hospital of Des Moines, and has acted as head resident at the University of Illinois, in addition to being a teaching assistant in elementary education.

Her credentials include completing a two-year elementary education course at Wartburg, a B. A. from the University of Iowa and an M. S. from the University of Illinois.

Is Visiting Professor

Dr. Emory Lindquist is the Visiting Professor and Scholar-in-Residence. Among his many degrees are a B. A. and an M. A. from Oxford University, Ph.D. from the University of Colorado, L.L.D. from Augustana College (Illinois) and L.H.D. from Bethany College.

Dr. Lindquist is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Pi Kappa Delta and was a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford. Previously he has been Professor at the University of Wichita and President of Bethany College and Wichita State University.

Mahlon Peterson, new head librarian, was assistant librarian at Lafayette College before coming to Wartburg. He received his A. B. from Augustana College (Illinois) and an M. S. in library science from the University of Illinois.

Will Instruct Sociology

Richard Pederson will be an instructor in Sociology. He has received his B. A. from Concordia College in Minnesota and is presently completing requirements for an M.A. in sociology at the University of North Dakota. Before joining the Wartburg faculty, Pederson was an instructor at Concordia.

Debate Team Reveals Plans

"Resolved, That executive control of United States foreign policy should be significantly curtailed." So reads the topic for collegiate debate this year.

Lyle Schnadt Devotes Summer To Chicago Witness Program

By MARK BECKER

Today's world, which has brought to light the racism which has been so prevalent in this country, has also caused many young people and college students to act and become involved. One such college student who spent his summer trying to help was junior Lyle Schnadt.

Schnadt worked with the Listening Witness program in Austin, Ill., a suburb of Chicago located on the West Side about six miles from the loop. He worked with the community organization called Organization for Better Austin.

Purpose Is Given

"The purpose of this organization," said Schnadt, "is to stabilize Austin so that the people who call it their home can continue to call it home." In other words, they are trying to remove the fear of having one's neighborhood change hands overnight.

In many places such as this a black family will move into a neighborhood, causing the neighborhood to panic, and resulting in everyone's putting his home up for sale. This happens because of the uncertainties the first black family brings into the neighborhood. These are caused by the racist attitudes this country has lived with so long.

Change Is Stopped

In order to stabilize the community, the organization tries to stop the block-by-block changing of a community from white to black and tries to integrate the remaining white part of the community.

There is a four-block area surrounding the black community which the organization tries to keep all white, according to Schnadt. "Whatever force they can use is used to keep black people out of that area."

At face value, this statement seems racist. However, if left without organization, this four-block area would become all black and would continue to spread its all-black status because of the racial attitudes, causing fear in the whites.

In order to stabilize the community, to keep it from "changing hands overnight" involves four basic areas in which Schnadt worked. First of all, his group had to deal with "panic - pedlars," real estate dealers who take advantage of fear in whites.

Dealers Buy Houses

These real estate dealers buy the whites' houses at approximately $5,000 less than value and sell it to the black people at about $5,000 more than the actual value, giving the dealer a $10,000 profit.

Schnadt's group tried to organize the people in order to put pressure on real estate dealers to force them out of the four-block fringe area around the black ghetto.

The second area in which the group worked was housing referral. The organization maintains a housing office to refer whites back into the fringe area and to refer blacks throughout the rest of the white community.

In the past year this group has placed 253 white families into this four-block fringe area, a feat which many said was impossible because of the fear of a "black invasion."

Pressure Is Applied

A third area in which the group works brings pressure on absentee landlords who do not maintain their buildings. It brings pressure on these landlords to fix up their buildings in order to keep the community desirable for anyone who wants to live there.

Another area in which this organization works is school upkeep because in order to move people into a certain neighborhood the educational facilities must be adequate, Schnadt said.

"One of the things that scares people is that in most urban areas, whenever one-half or more of the school is black, the facilities tend to be inadequate; at least they are not up to par with the predominantly white schools," he added.

The community organization, therefore, tries to get the people to put pressure on school boards to maintain quality education in all areas of the school system.

Live In Apartment

Schnadt lived in an apartment with five seminarians who worked with white gangs. They did their own cooking and generally shared the household duties.

For the first two months of the summer, Schnadt held down an eight-hour a day, six-day-a-week job, after which he worked for the organization, sometimes running quite late into the night.

However, one unfortunate thing happened. As he was driving his bicycle to work one morning, he hit a car and broke his arm. This was fortunate for the agency, however, because after this he worked full-time there.

Impressed by the need, Schnadt said, "I am definitely going back to Chicago next summer. The community organization is one model which can be followed to counteract the effects of racism."

Lobato Makes Historical Finds While On Archeology Expedition

By STEVE PETERSON

Dr. Jose Lobato, Spanish instructor at Wartburg College, has returned with his family from an archeological expedition to Puerto Rico and Santo Domingo. Lobato's work was supported by a grant from Wartburg to do further work on a study of pre-Columbian Indian cultures of the Caribbean.

During the summer, Lobato spent two weeks in Puerto Rico and the last two months of the summer in Santo Domingo. Lobato has come up with quite an achievement for an amateur archeologist.

He explained, "On my first trip to Santo Domingo in 1955, I found the first evidence of the existence of an early Igneri Indian culture. The evidence consisted of pictographs, pictures and petroglyphs, carvings on the walls of caves which I was exploring.

"These discoveries of the pictographs and petroglyphs confirmed the opinions of some archeologists that American culture came from the old world through the Caribbean to the continent."

Explores Four Caves

During the last summer Lobato explored four caves and examined the sides of two or three cliffs looking for further material. He found more of the drawings and carvings along with whole pieces and works of pottery which were identified as belonging to the same period.

Lobato described the tribes whose history he has been studying: "The Taino culture was one of the best developed cultures in the Americas and in some respects can be compared with the Aztecs of Mexico and the Incas of Peru.

"The Taino Indians were in the Caribbean when the Spanish explorers first discovered the area. The other group, the Igneri tribe, dates back 1,000 years or more and there is some evidence that they lived as much as 1,500 years ago in the Caribbean.

"Some of the material we excavated has been dated with a carbon test to be about that old. The designs of some figures are believed to be of Greek or Phoenician origin, showing the origin of the Indian tribes."

Lobato has had some problems in completing studies in the Caribbean area. After his first visit to Santo Domingo he was unable to return until 1959 because of political difficulty. He has been waiting for several years for a chance to do some work in Cuba.

Is Satisfied

He said, however, that he is satisfied with his work in Puerto Rico and that he thinks his archeological hobby has been successful.

Lobato was accompanied on his cave explorations last summer by an archeologist from Puerto Rico University, Luis Chanlatte. Lobato met Chanlatte in 1955 after his first discovery.

In addition to Chanlatte, Lobato was accompanied by the vice president of Santo Domingo University, Dr. Morban Lauer. The three men found entrances to the caves in the sides of cliffs. The caves stretch out as far as 500 feet underground.

At levels of 100 and 200 feet the men were able to see the paintings on the walls by light from holes in the ceiling high over their heads. From 11 a.m. until about 3 p.m. when the sun was directly overhead, the explorers, as well as the original painters, could see the walls of the caves plainly.

Plans To Write Book

Lobato plans on writing a book about his archeological research sometime in the future, but it may not be in the next few years.

"Before writing the book, I would like to visit Cuba, but I have been waiting for nine years now and may not get there.

"I also plan on writing another book on a 20th century poet named Antonio Machado of Spain. While in Santo Domingo and Puerto Rico I did research on Machado because of difficulty of finding material here in the United States."

Groundwork Is Commenced On Afton Manor, Phase II

Groundwork has begun on Afton Manor, Phase II, according to college Business Manager Walter Fredrick.

A new location has been selected, however, because of the heavy rains which occurred in Waverly over the summer. Original plans had called for the units to be placed north and slightly east of the present Afton Manor complex.

The new location is directly west of the present Afton Manor complex.

Money Is Loaned

Wartburg has been loaned 535 thousand dollars from the Federal Government for the completion of the project.

After a careful evaluation of the interior design in the present Afton complex, it was decided to employ a new design, though the layout will remain the same.

Students in the present Afton complex were consulted carefully and their suggestions were taken into account in planning for the new cluster.

Heating Is Feature

The new units will feature one central, base-board type heating unit. Only the lounge will be air-conditioned, since the cool air will spill over into the surrounding rooms.

Completion of the new complex is slated for August 15, 1969, and should be ready for fall occupancy.

It will house a total of 96 girls, 24 in each of the four units.
